U.S. House of Representatives
Committee on Appropriations

Dear Chairwoman DeLauro and Ranking Member Cole:

On behalf of the 61 undersigned organizations representing the Nursing Community Coalition, we respectfully reiterate our request of at least $278 million for the Nursing Workforce Development Programs (Title VIII of the Public Health Service Act [42 U.S.C. 296 et seq.]) and $182 million for the National Institute of Nursing Research (NINR, National Institutes of Health) in Fiscal Year (FY) 2021. We also strongly support additional supplemental funding for these programs as we continue to combat COVID-19. Through this investment, the Subcommittee would continue its strong commitment to these essential programs and safeguard the public's well-being by ensuring that federal resources for the nursing workforce, healthcare, and research are sustained.

The Nursing Community Coalition, which represents the cross section of education, practice, research, and regulation within the nursing profession, is committed to advancing the health of our nation through the nursing lens. With more than four million practitioners, nurses make up the largest group of health professionals in the United States.<sup>1</sup> The nursing workforce is involved at every point of care nationwide, which is exemplified by nurses' heroic work during the COVID-19 pandemic.

As we confront today's health care challenges and prepare for the future, increased federal investments in nursing education and the workforce, through support of Title VIII Nursing Workforce Development Programs, is imperative. Title VIII programs are instrumental in bolstering and sustaining the nation's nursing pipeline by addressing all aspects of nursing workforce demand. A prime example of this is the Title VIII Advanced Nursing Education (ANE) programs, which support APRN students and nurses to practice on the frontlines and in rural and underserved areas throughout the country. Additionally, to ensure that we have a diverse nursing workforce, Title VIII programs also increase education opportunities for nursing students from underrepresented and disadvantaged backgrounds. classroom to the bedside, and across a variety of settings, all Title VIII programs work to increase access to nursing care in communities that need it most.

To ensure that we have the knowledge to inform evidence-based practice and policy, we must also invest in research. As one of the 27 Institutes and Centers at the National Institutes of Health, NINR's research is aimed at reducing burdensome chronic illness, improving end of life care, and promoting patient-centered care across the life continuum. From disease prevention and global health, to precision medicine and genomic studies, NINR is at the forefront of nursing science and research.

Again, we urge you to support at least $278 million for the Title VIII Nursing Workforce Development Programs and $182 million for the National Institute of Nursing Research in FY 2021, and supplemental funding as we continue to address current public health challenges. Through this investment we can ensure our patients and communities have continued access to these vital nursing education, research, and practice programs.
